

Dear <enter the name of your colleague here>,

I have been a member of The American Occupational Therapy Association for <enter number> years, and have found so much value in my membership that I wanted to extend a personal invitation to you to join.

AOTA has always provided me with the tools and resources I need to help navigate my career through changing dynamics and legislative challenges. As an occupational therapist, you know the importance of staying on top of the issues that impact our profession. AOTA will not only empower you to do that, but will also provide real value to your occupation and help you grow as an OT professional. AOTA is the only national professional association devoted to advancing occupational therapy practice, education, and research through standard setting and advocacy.

To join the AOTA community today, please click on this link <enter unique registration link> and follow the prompts.

I am happy to share more specifics with you about how AOTA membership has helped me to advance my career, connect with the OT community, navigate today's issues, and support the distinct value of our profession. In the meantime, please visit the AOTA website for the latest practical and evidence-based information, continuing education, certification information, volunteer opportunities, advocacy initiatives, and so much more!
